You're Invited!

Join NCANN, the Northern California Chapter of the National Association of Neonatal Nurses, for an exciting conference in Napa, California. This conference will help you prepare for the Neonatal Intensive Care Certification Exam (RNC-NIC). The topics will be presented by a variety of neonatal experts, and will focus on nursing practice, pathophysiology, general assessment and management, professional issues, and psychosocial care of the family in the NICU.

Invite a friend and join us for this invigorating learning experience. Everyone involved in the care of critically ill newborns is welcome – even those with no immediate plans to sit for the RNC exam will benefit from this review session by expanding their knowledge of neonatal intensive care. Networking opportunities and vendor exhibits are also available.

See you in beautiful Napa, California!

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

This conference will enable the neonatal clinician to:

- Identify maternal and fetal risk factors and their implications for the neonate
- Review neonatal systems such as cardiac, respiratory, GI, GU, endocrine, and neurology
- Apply knowledge of pathophysiology to differentiate normal and abnormal conditions in these neonatal systems
- Apply knowledge of normal and abnormal lab values and diagnostic test results and identify potential outcomes associated with those results in the neonatal population
- Discuss how psychosocial factors may affect a neonate's family
- Discuss ethical, legal, and professional issues affecting the neonatal nurse and his/her patients

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?
